Pom Pom Camp is located on Pom Pom Island in a private concession in the Okavango Delta, on the western edge of the Moremi Game Reserve. The Delta covers an area of some 16,000 square kilometres and supports a wealth of flora and fauna.

The camp is set under a grove of trees offering shade from the sun and overlooks a lagoon, a perfect spot to enjoy the sunset. The camp recently underwent a refurbishment and re-opened on 16 March 2012. The new vintage-style canvas tents offer spacious accommodation with en-suite facilities, a private lounge area and a veranda. All tents overlook Pom Pom lagoon. The main building, under thatch and canvas, houses the lounge, dining area and bar as well as the pool. These areas have all been refurbished. There is also a gift shop and boma area.

Activities offered include game drives, night drives, mokoro trips and walks. The best game viewing is offered in the Delta, where guests have the opportunity of seeing all major predators, a variety of big game and plains game, as well as an abundance of bird life.
