Kalamu Lagoon Camp (previously known as Kwena Lagoon) is set in the private Luamfwa Concession in the southern part of South Luangwa National Park, famed for its rich variety of game. The 8 safari-style tents are all ensuite with both indoor and outdoor showers. The central dining and bar area is set under a grove of shady ebony trees and is a great place to unwind. The viewing deck and pool have views of the lagoon.

Activities include guided game walks exploring the local environment and both day and night game drives, to view the resident game which includes elephant, buffalo, antelope, lion, leopard and wild dog. The area is also home to Thornicroft's giraffe and Cookson's wildebeest, which are unique to this region.

This camp is in a wild, remote area to the far south of South Luangwa National Park and must be accessed in and out of Kalamu airstrip, it is not possible to road transfer from Mfuwe. Note that whilst a fabulous walking area and perfect for linking with the Kalamu Walking Trails, Kalamu Lagoon Camp is also suitable for family safaris at the main camp where there are family rooms.
