Dar Zitoune is set at the foot of the High Atlas Mountains 3kms from the lovely walled market town of Taroudant. The 'House of Olives' is surrounded by 3 acres of gardens with citrus and olive groves, roses and palm trees, and exudes an air of calm and relaxation. There are sun terraces with loungers and a 20 metre swimming pool plus a heated jacuzzi pool. Dar Zitoune has its own spa, where guests can enjoy a range of treatments including hammam, massage, sauna, beauty treatments and manicures.

Accommodation is in 14 bungalows and 8 suites, all with ensuite bathrooms, spread through the gardens. All rooms are decorated in warm, welcoming colours and are equipped with all modern amenities including air conditioning, TV, phone, safe and internet access, whilst still retaining their traditional features. The hotel uses locally made berber rugs, art and furniture throughout.

Breakfast is a sumptuous affair and the homemade pastisseries are a speciality. Meals are served in the elegant restaurant in the main house and feature a mixture of Moroccan and European cuisines. The cocktail bar is located in the vaulted basement and is the perfect place for a pre-dinner drink while enjoying some live Moroccan music.

Taroudant is just a 5 minute drive away and has some of the best preserved town walls in Morocco. The souks are well worth a visit, too. Staff can arrange visits to villages and sites further afield, for trips between half a day to up to 2 days in duration, to berber villages, kasbahs and into the desert. Guests can trek in the High Atlas foothills and visit the palm groves of Tiout a short drive from the hotel.
